COVID - 19

Here at McInnes Wilson Lawyers, we understand the dramatic and potentially devastating impacts that COVID-19 and its related restrictions are having on our clients, referrers and Australian businesses as a whole.

Rest assured that we are not just here for our clients in the good times, but we are also here to assist when times get tough.

If you or your clients are feeling these impacts, are worried what is to come and how your business or your clients' businesses will be affected, the Commercial Team at McInnes Wilson Lawyers is happy to talk through these concerns with you free of charge. If you need a legal sounding board then we are here for you.

Some of the major issues affecting our clients at the moment include:

- Leasing concerns – both for Landlords and Tenants
- Employment issues – for both employers and employees
- Contractual obligations
- Debt management and finance options
- Restructuring
- Franchising concerns
- Visa issues
- Wills and Estates

For most of these matters, timely advice is paramount. McInnes Wilson is still open and functioning to provide advice and solutions for clients, and we are well equipped to have discussions or meetings via phone, Skype, Zoom, Microsoft Teams or email.

Please do not hesitate to contact us for free initial discussions or consultations at any time – we are here to help.
